London, Feb. 21.—(AP)—U. S. Fortresses and Liberators dealt the Nazi homefront its fourth great aerial blow in 36 hours by bombarding northwest Germany today a few hours after the RAF had hammered Stuttgart on the southwest border.

Today's American force was officially announced as "approximately" the size of the record 2,000-plane armada which struck Leipzig and other key German centers Sunday, attesting the U. S. Air Force's growing strength. The bomber section probably again approached the 2,000-plane figure, with an additional thousand escorting fighters, pre-

NEW RUSSIAN PUSH TOWARD MINSK STARTS

Berlin Broadcast Claims Red Army Has Thrown 100,000 More Men Into Offensive

14 VILLAGES TAKEN

London, Feb. 21.—(AP)—The Russian continued to roll over open ground toward the Baltic today, a Berlin broadcast, the south, a Berlin broadcast, the Red army had thrown 100,000 more men into a powerful push toward Minsk in White Russia.

A Soviet communique announced that 14 villages were captured in the drive for Belov yesterday, with more than 2,200 Germans killed in advances of two to 12 miles through swirling snows. Three points, each within miles of DNO, a rail junction 60 miles east of Pskov, were taken in advance, the bulletin said.

The Red army units nearest Pskov were last reported 28 miles north after battling down east shores of Lake Peipus and the Pskov, but Moscow announcements have not mentioned progress in several days.

The drives announced yesterday were taking place south and southwest of Luga, southwest of Novgorod beyond captured Shlisselburg, west of fallen Staraya Russa, and Lake Ilna. One hundred of localities captured were declared in the push from Staraya Russa.

A Berlin broadcast also asserted that Russian forces in the Baltic had launched a furious assault toward Krivirog, last core city held by the Germans in the Dnieper bend.

Berlin broadcasts still maintained that Nazi troops which were forced at Korsun, 25 miles from the middle Dnieper river, had speeded the death trap through the German armor and infantry attacking east of Zashkov, 55 miles west of Korsun. The Russians have announced the capture of the trap, with 73,200 Germans killed or captured.

U. S. Bomber Base in England, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Almost every American airman on the base knew he was up there and pulling for him. . . . From one base to another for more than two hours he flew the press trying to find his way. . . . control towers talked him by radio and learned his was dead and his co-pilot died after Sunday's series of on German aircraft plants. . . . the engineer," he told one in a cool voice. "I don't know about flying this thing but trying to bring it back whole."

Eniwetok—Jap Bombers Smashed!

Look carefully and you can count at least eight Jap two-motored bombers on the airstrip of Eniwetok Island in the Marshalls, all demolished by bombs from a U. S. Navy air raid preceding the warship shelling and land force attack launched following the Ponape and Truk assaults. (Navy photo.)

Three Killed, Seven Hurt in Bomber Crash

Langley Field, Va., Feb. 21.—(AP)—A four-engine bomber from Langley Field crashed Saturday morning near Andrews, S. Incendiaries Are Scattered Over London

London, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Nazi air raiders scattered incendiaries and explosives over London in a short but fierce attack last night which set fires in many areas and caused some casualties.

The assault apparently was staged in an attempt to repeat the big fire raid which was carried out against London Early Saturday morning—the heaviest loss of the raid when clouds lifted and tons of explosives hurtling out of the bellies of the big bombers.

The attack on Stuttgart, one of the Nazis' biggest manufacturing centers with a population of half a million, continued the series of triphammer strokes against German aircraft production—a stepping stone objective to continental invasion.

U. S. Army headquarters announced that the largest number of Flying Fortresses and Liberators ever employed in a daylight operation—1,000 or more—participated in yesterday's attacks. Twenty-two were lost.

Uniontown, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Lt. Mildred Wolfe Wallace, 32, a nurse, was killed in a vehicular mishap in the Mediterranean area, according to a War Department message received by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wolfe, Merrittstown, Pa. Her husband, Robert Wallace, is at sea with the Merchant Marine.

Prisoner Fails In Attempt at Suicide

Harrisburg, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Harold G. Griffin, 27, held in the slaying of Rubin Magee, a junk dealer, attempted suicide at the state police barracks last night. Lt. Albert F. Dahlstrom reported today.

Private Stephen Richardson found Griffin, a railroad fireman, in his cell bleeding from knife wounds of the left arm.

Dr. Matthew M. Douglas said the wounds were not serious and the prisoner was kept at the barracks.

Dahlstrom said that Griffin probably picked up a pocket knife yesterday at his home in nearby Langhorne where he was taken to lead police to a pistol hidden beneath the floor boards in his garage.

Dahlstrom said Griffin signed a statement that he shot the junk dealer last week after an argument.

President and Congress Point Toward Head-On Collision On Issues Affecting Home Front

By JACK BELL

Washington, Feb. 21.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and congress today appeared pointed toward a head-on collision over a series of home front policy issues that almost inevitably will reverberate in the political campaign.

Many Republican and some Democratic legislators say there is evidence that preliminary efforts already are being made to blame congress for any domestic breakdowns that may be subjected to political attack in the presidential campaign if Mr. Roosevelt seeks re-election.

While administration supporters deny there is any such intent, the facts are that the president and many members of both major parties in congress are at odds on such explosive questions as food price subsidies, the method by which service personnel shall vote in the election, taxes, and, probably, the method by which mobilization shall be accomplished.

The food subsidy question was only temporarily disposed of last week when the house sustained a presidential veto of legislation banning future payments to producers.

If Mr. Roosevelt vetoes the $2,315,000,000 tax increase bill, as congressional leaders have said he would, he probably will pitch the revenue question squarely into the campaign. He asked for $10,500,000,000 in new taxes, a figure that Wendell L. Willkie, the 1940 presidential nominee, said ought to be almost doubled.

Draft Status Of Lonergan Is Questioned

By JAMES H. PORTERFIELD

New York, Feb. 21.—(AP)—In another prelude to Wayne Lonergan's first degree murder trial, Judge John J. Freschi called for arguments in general sessions court today on motions involving the Canadian-born defendant's 4-F draft status.

The district attorney's office has said the classification resulted from Lonergan's own admission of homosexuality.

Lonergan's attorney, Edward V. Broderick, brought the matter into court with a request that the district attorney's office be compelled to turn over to him copies of the draft board's psychiatric report and the autopsy report on Lonergan's heinous wife, Patricia, whom he is charged with killing last October 24.

The defense attorney declared the reports were necessary to his case.

Broderick also was prepared to ask for another postponement of the trial, already twice delayed and now scheduled to begin Wednesday. Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet, the prosecutor, has announced he would "vigorously oppose" any further postponement.

Tax Bill Veto Is Anticipated By Congress

BULLETIN

Washington, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) said today President Roosevelt would send to congress tomorrow a message vetoing the $2,315,000,000 new tax bill. The veto will be sustained, Rayburn asserted. The speaker expressed what he called his opinion to newspapermen after a conference at the White House attended by congressional Democratic leaders. Some of the leaders urged the president not to veto the tax bill.

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

Washington, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Congress resigned itself today to an expected veto of the $2,315,000,000 tax bill with some members talking of tossing its Social Security payroll tax freeze provision right back to the White House in the form of new legislation.

Republican members of the house ways and means committee expected to confer informally today or tomorrow on the problems which a veto would bring up. One member said he would be particularly disturbed by loss of the Social Security freeze and a section giving a war contractor disallowance with the renegotiation of his contract his day in court.

In the senate, acting Minority Leader White (R-Maine) said he thought a veto would be "a serious mistake" on the part of the president.

In the event of a veto, and in the absence of new legislation (which presumably would have to be passed over another veto) the Social Security tax rate will double March 1 to 2 percent each on employers and employees. Employees covered by the federal old age and survivors insurance would get no additional benefits; the contingency reserve fund merely would be increased.

Chaplin's Bride Is Expectant Mother

By JAMES LINDSLEY

Los Angeles, Feb. 21.—(AP)—This is an eventful winter for Charlie Chaplin, the little English funnyman.

All wound up in a criminal and civil legal snarl involving his associations with his former protégé, 23-year-old Joan Berry, the 54-year-old actor, it was announced yesterday, next August will become a father for the fourth time.

The expectant mother is his fourth bride, Oona Chaplin, 18, daughter of playwright Eugene O'Neill and New York debutante of 1942.

DISASTROUS WEEK BRINGS JAP SHAKEUP

Lightning Blows by American Land, Sea and Air Forces Cost Nipponese 19 to 26 Ships

PLANE LOSSES HIGH

By MORRIE LANDSBERG

Associated Press War Editor
Lightning blows by American land, sea and air forces which cost the enemy 19 to 26 ships and 201 planes in the Truk assault alone, brought a shakeup in the Japanese high command today.

Emperor Hirohito relieved the chiefs of the Army and Navy general staffs of their commands, radio Tokyo announced, following Japan's most disastrous week of the war she started at Pearl Harbor 26 months ago.

The Japanese, in those seven explosive days, not only lost five islands in the South Pacific Green group; scores of ships and hundreds of planes, but learned the Allies could hit out with multiple strikes simultaneously at key Nipponese bases from Rabaul to the Marshalls.

Carrying forward the successive offensive in the central Pacific, American fighting men closed in on Eniwetok, westernmost of the Marshall Islands, in a swiftly-executed invasion thrust. Capture of Eniwetok island, with its strategic airfield only 750 miles from Truk, left only half of Eniwetok island and nearby Parry island to assure U. S. capture of the second Marshalls base.

In other announcements, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz told of the long naval shelling and air bombardment of Japanese territory in the Marshalls, and attacks on Ponape, 440 miles west of Truk, and Kusaie, 330 miles southeast of Ponape.

General Douglas MacArthur reported from the southwest Pacific the first shelling of Rabaul, Japan's once mighty fortress, and adjacent Kavieng, New Island. Friday, a few hours before Allied planes slashed at Rabaul in three heavy strikes that neutralized one of its airdromes, at least temporarily.

In a communique disclosing the results of the two-day attack on the Japanese naval bastion in the central Carolines Feb. 16 and 17, Admiral Nimitz announced that "the Pacific fleet has returned at Truk the visit made by the Japanese fleet at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, and effected a partial settlement of the debt."

The Japanese acknowledged the loss of two cruisers, three destroyers, 13 transports and 120 planes, claiming they had shot down 54 American planes, sunk two cruisers and damaged two warships. The American communique placed our losses at 17 planes and moderate damage to one surface ship.

Five warships were sunk and 12 others damaged, and 177 planes destroyed by the Japanese sneak attack on Pearl Harbor. Since then, an Associated Press compilation based on communique and unofficial figures shows the enemy has lost 306 naval ships against 130 for the United States.

FATALITY IN FIRE

Pittsburgh, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Charles Hubmaster, 54, one-legged World War veteran, perished in a garage fire yesterday while a friend, Henry Artope, 49, owner of the garage, tried to crash him to effect a rescue. Deputy Fire Marshal John Hopkins said the blaze apparently started when Hubmaster fell asleep with a lighted cigar.

Democratic Invasion of GOP Primary Promises Excitement

By U. U. LESLIE

Harrisburg, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Democratic invasion of the Republican primary—with former Governor Arthur H. James as the target—promises to give some old-time zip to Pennsylvania's warm-up political campaign this spring.

The entry of Democratic Superior Court Judge Chester H. Rhodes against James, backed by the G. O. P. organization for a full 10-year term, was made for the avowed purpose of "stirring things up."

It also gives Democratic workers down in the precincts an early

Fort Pitt Bond Sales Inch Toward the Quota

Pittsburgh, Feb. 21.—(AP)—The 19 county Fort Pitt area's war bond sales inched toward the $325,497,000 goal today, as late reports continued to arrive, but sales of "E" bonds still lagged far behind quotas.

Sales of all bonds reported to date totaled $310,250,000, or 95 per cent of the area quota. Sales of "E" bonds totaled $54,900,000, about 65 per cent of the quota for that issue.

Today's figures showed $9,000,000 in new sales of all issues, of which $6,800,000 was reported from Allegheny county and $2,200,000 from the other 18 counties.

Opposition To Lowering Of Induction Age

Better Utilization of Existing Manpower Resources Is Suggested

ALTERNATIVE OUTLINED

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

Washington, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Flatly rejecting suggestions that the draft age be lowered from 18 to 17, members of the house military committee called today for better utilization of existing manpower resources before considering any changes in the Selective Service Act.

As an alternative to dropping the age to 17 should some new action become necessary, Chairman May (D-Ky.) said he believed it would be better to raise it "and take in some of the non-fathers between 38 and 45 who are now classified as over-age."

"It would be better to use these men than to take fathers in their late thirties," he declared. "No new legislation would be necessary because present law permits the induction of men up to 45. The armed services just are not taking men over 38."

Both May and Rep. Harness of Indiana, a high ranking Republican member of the committee, said they could see no reason to drop the minimum induction age below 18, as has been suggested recently in some quarters.

May said he knew of nothing that would "convince me it would be right to draft 17-year-old boys even if the armed forces agreed to keep them out of combat until they are 18."

BROTHER OF FORMER GOVERNOR IS DEAD

New York, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Funeral services for Amos Richards Eno Pinchot, New York attorney and brother of former Pennsylvania Governor Gifford Pinchot, will be held Wednesday in Brick Presbyterian church here, with burial at Milford, Pa.

Pinchot, who was 70, died Friday. He had been active in political campaigns for many years. With his brother, he helped Theodore Roosevelt to found the Bull

TWO-WAY ELECTRONIC PHONE SYSTEM ON PRR

Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Now the engineer of the speeding railroad train can keep in touch with the control tower back in the city by telephone.

The Pennsylvania railroad announced that a two-way electronic telephone system between trains and terminals has been been in use for some time on its Belvidere-Delaware branch and will be extended soon to related lines.

The system still is in the experimental stage, the railroad company said.

Allegheny Dems May Back McNair

Pittsburgh, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Col. orful, fighting William N. McNair, who has been running for office for 35 years, has been slated by the Democratic organization for the nomination for legislature in the fourth Allegheny county district.

McNair ran for the U. S. Senate in 1928 and polled more than a million votes, at that time a record for a Democrat in Pennsylvania. The organization slated him for mayor in 1933. He was elected but soon fell out with the organization, and resigned in 1936.

HIGHWAY FATALITIES

Pittsburgh, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Two men were injured fatally when they were struck by automobiles last night, the coroner reported. William Novotny, 42, of North Versailles township, died on his way to McKeesport Hospital. Gaza Matvosky, 65, of Clairton, died in McKeesport Hospital several hours after he had been struck by a car near his home.

HARMONY MEETINGS

TIMELY PATRIOTISM

In times like these, every one on the home-front wants to buy as many war bonds as possible. But it's hard to buy bonds when old bills are still unpaid. If this is your problem, see us about it. There should be a way to make your 1944 income cover not only your current expenses, but any past-due bills as well. One of our loan plans can help you clean up the bills, and start buying bonds, too.

Local Man Is Believed Victim Of Exposure

A double investigation has been under way the past two days by members of the Warren police department and the coroner's office into the circumstances surrounding the death of Anthony Santo Graziano, 33, better known to a host of friends in Warren as "Tony", whose body was found early Sunday morning on the path leading from the Pennsylvania railroad freight house to the home of his parents, at 1109 Spring street. It was apparent he had been dead for several hours.

Discovery of the tragedy was made when the family, becoming alarmed over the fact that he had not appeared at home at five o'clock Sunday morning, started a search for him. A few moments later the body was found slumped near a corner pole of a chicken coop on an adjoining property. He was carried into the home and the Gibson ambulance summoned but it was found that death had ensued some time before. There were a couple of brush burns on the forehead and an indentation in the skin left when he fell upon a board. Supposition of the officials is that he became ill while on his way home, and was bracing himself against the post when he collapsed accidentally striking his head in such manner as to make him temporarily unconscious, during which time he may have been overcome by exposure to the sub-zero temperature. He had been employed at the Arcade bowling alley as a pinboy, but did not work Saturday evening. He was in and out of the place between eight and eleven. Police are endeavoring to trace his movements after that time.

"Tony" was born in Warren February 26, 1911, son of Mr. and Mrs. Felice Graziano, who survive with the following brothers and sisters: Frank, Joseph, Thomas, Anna and Theresa at home; Peter, Falconer, N. Y.; Pfc. William Graziano, Fort Monroe, Va.; Corp. Victor Graziano, Alliance, Neb. He was a member of St. Joseph's church.

The body was taken in charge by Leo D. Gibson, and removal is being made to the home in Spring street today, where the parish rosary will be sung Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. Funeral services will be held from St. Joseph's church Wednesday morning at ten o'clock, and interment will follow in St. Joseph's cemetery.

News of the untimely passing of the popular young man was received as a profound shock by a large number of friends to whom he had endeared himself through his friendly personality.

Word was received here over the weekend that Major and Mrs. Paul B. Stewart are leaving today for their new service post in Roswell, N. M., where Major Stewart has been assigned to the 1844th unit, Eighth Service Command. He was recently sent to Harmon General Hospital in Longview, Tex.

Robert Williams, Sugar Grove boy who is on the west coast with a Ranger unit, is home until Thursday to visit his family.

Mrs. Esther O'Green received a telephone call from her son, Paul E. Wallin, from New York on Sunday. He had been enroute from Africa for three months, and is now visiting in Mt. Jewett.

WILLOW CREEK

Willow Creek, Feb. 14—Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Pettit and family of Tonawanda, N. Y., former local residents, were recent visitors here.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Talerico, who moved to Bradford several months ago from here, have recently moved back to this community.

Miss Kate Carr of Bradford was here recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crandall and daughters, Miss Marjorie Holsinger, and Mrs. Philip Dewyer and daughter, Nancy, of Bradford, were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis B. Holsinger yesterday.

Mrs. Philip Dewyer and infant daughter have moved to Bradford.

Phillip Rose of Bradford was a recent visitor here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Krouse and sons have moved to Buffalo. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Rodgers and son Russell, of Quaker Bridge visited the former's parents here recently.

Paul Cobb, foreman second class, spent a leave with her family in Glendon. He has been transferred from Newport, R. I., to Boston, Mass., for basic engineering training. While on furlough, he visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey H. Cobb.

Mr. Albert Cobb of Bradford.

Friendly Guidance

In the dark hour of inevitable loss the human mind is often too dazed to comprehend the many details that must be attended to. In our professional capacity we offer friendly guidance to soften that shock—to interpret wishes and to make the final tribute a perfect one.

Lenten Regulations Read In Catholic Churches of Diocese

The following Lenten regulations were read Sunday in St. Joseph's and Holy Redeemer as well as all Catholic churches throughout the diocese:

1. All the days of Lent, except Sundays, are fast days. The Lenten fast ends at noon on Holy Saturday.
2. All between the ages of 21 and 59 are obliged to fast, except the sick and convalescent; women in delicate health and condition; those to whom fasting would cause grave injury to health, or would produce such illness or exhaustion as would interfere with their daily duties; and those whose occupations are of a very laborious and exhausting nature. Those who doubt whether they are excused or not, should consult their confessor.
3. Those obliged to fast are allowed but one meal, either at noon or in the evening.
4. During Lent every Wednesday and Friday are days of abstinence. However, by special privilege of the Holy See, working people and their families are obliged to abstain from meat only on Ash Wednesday and Fridays. On all other days of abstinence those of the family who are obliged to fast may eat meat at their principal meal; those not obliged to fast may eat meat at any of their meals.
5. Those who are excused from fasting or abstinence during Lent should practice self-denial in some other way.
6. The usual Lenten devotions will be provided in all the churches of the diocese, and the faithful should endeavor by earnest prayer, heartfelt contrition, and the worthy receiving of the sacraments to profit by the special graces of the holy season. Attendance at theaters and dances, and indulgence in intoxicating liquor is opposed to the spirit of Lent. These practices should be discouraged.

7. The time for complying with the precept of the Paschal Communion extends, as heretofore, from the first Sunday of Lent to Trinity Sunday.

JOHN NMARK GANNON
N. B.—The Rt. Rev., Very Rev. and Rev. Pastors are reminded to place boxes in the church for the Lenten alms for the Holy Father.

Columbus To Erect Honor Roll at Library

The directors of the Dutton Public Library at Columbus met last week at the home of Albert Sandburg and elected Mrs. Charles Swanson as a director. Other business brought before the session included a proposal by J. H. Reagle and Leslie Dodd, who represented the Parent-Teacher Association in the matter of placing an honor roll for Columbus men in service.

It was suggested that the honor roll be placed on the lawn in front of the library building and be lighted at night from the building itself. Mr. Reagle and Mr. Dodd have the project about completed and an affirmative vote having been recorded by the library board will place it before the library.

The directors announced that new books have been placed in the library and are available for the public's use. The volumes in the library now number over 2000.

Chapter 18

JULIE awoke at two next afternoon to the enticing aroma of coffee and sizzling bacon, and Kay's cheerful whistle from the kitchen.

Julie showered quickly, brushed the dark waves of her hair with fast, deft strokes and coiled it low about her head. In five minutes she was in the kitchen fresh in a gayly-flowered gingham and wedgies.

"Kay gave her a grin of friendly malice. 'I tried the navy song first,' she said, 'then the army, then the marines. I don't know why I didn't think of the air corps tune sooner.'"

Julie laughed. "It wasn't your singing that woke me. It was the bacon. How'd you ever happen to get it?"

Kay winked. "System," she murmured, breaking the eggs into the skillet. "I'll show you when we go shopping this afternoon. Turn the toast, will you? Have a good time last night?"

Julie nodded happily. As they lingered over their breakfast in the sunny kitchenette, Julie told Kay of the fabulous evening at Marek's Hollywood apartment. Of the fascinating discussion of her picture.

Kay nodded understandingly. "No one in the world makes better noises than directors and producers when they're talking about a picture," she said. "What alibi did you give Marek for standing him up last night?"

"I told him the truth."

KAY stared at her, her toast stopped halfway to her mouth. "You mean you told him you went out with another man?"

Julie nodded. "Kay murmured with awe, one eyebrow cocked. 'And he talked of starting you in the picture after that?'"

Julie took a sip of coffee. "Why shouldn't he?" she argued. "Because," said Kay. "Marek Dorri just isn't the kind of guy to be pushed around. He does the pushing when there's shoving to do. And he's in love with you."

"He isn't," Julie retorted. "If that's why he was giving me his chance, it would be off—because I told him I loved Dave."

Sudden pink spots appeared in Julie's ivory cheeks. Her voice lowered. "He said—when I was to go to the glamour pile, I could have Dave. If I didn't want him..." she said slowly.

KAY let out her held breath in a snort of puzzled amusement, and helped herself to marmalade. "I don't get it," she admitted. "But maybe I'm wrong. Maybe he did recognize genius in what he'd lavished on any valuable studio property. I don't know. I was just an extra myself. Maybe I'm sentimental."

After breakfast, Julie insisted on washing the dishes, but Kay was adamant.

"No you don't, kiddo," she said. "You're spoiling your hands fast enough at night. I'm doing the extra dirty work around here. You'd look funny having to take a week off when your studio call came to get rid of dishpan hands."

So Julie wiped. Kay complimented her.

"It's fun," Julie laughed. "At least it's fun to do with you. You enjoy it, don't you?"

"This apartment isn't housework," scoffed Kay. "It's child's play. You ought to have a six-roomed Minnesota farmhouse—with eight brothers to pick up after, and milk to put through the separator night and morning, and chickens to feed and a calf to nurse."

While they ran the sweeper through the small rooms and aired the beds, Kay told Julie of her large and energetic family, now scattered across the continent in six states, besides swelling the ranks of army and navy.

"I should think your mother would be worried sick all the time about all of you."

Kay looked up from her counting of the laundry with a smiling shake of her blonde head. "She isn't the worrying kind," she said. "Some people are and some aren't. She said once she tried it, but she didn't know which of us to start worrying about. So she gave it up. She has a wonderful time getting letters and spreading the news to the others."

Julie sighed. "What a wonderful way to live. What's the secret of it?"

Kay shouted from the closet. "Balance. She says she's not responsible for creating heaven or earth or running anyone's life, including her own. All that's required of her is to function happily."

Julie laughed wistfully. "It sounds as simple as perfection," she murmured. Then she stared at Kay emerging from the wardrobe. "Why on earth are you in your factory clothes already?"

Kay winked. "That's my system," she said gayly. "Just in case our butcher forgets I'm a war worker."

They walked the two blocks to the grocery slowly. The towering ridge of the hills flanking the valley to the North was blue and clear. The breeze was sweet with alfalfa and spicy with mustard. Victory vegetable gardens were bright spots in the green fields.

Kay seemed to know all the amateur gardeners along the way. She stopped to exchange greetings and give them advice.

"Better make those trellises higher for your beans," she'd called. "They'll be spreading all over the ground and tripping you!"

Julie was filled with admiration and enthusiasm. "Why can't we rent a lot and make a garden?" she wondered. "I think it would be fun!"

"Would be all right!" Kay agreed eagerly. "We might even jerk Jack away from his books some days. Best thing in the world for him."

THEY had a merry time in the market. Kay flattered the vegetable man and flirted outrageously with the butcher, explaining to Julie loudly it was the only way to get good food these days. Everyone had a quip for Kay and a friendly grin for Julie.

Life seemed for the moment bright and uncomplicated. Julie was humming as they strolled homeward through their parcels.

She turned suddenly to find Kay's eyes on her in a quizzical look.

"What's the matter?"

Kay laughed. "What thing. I was just thinking, you're a darn cute in overalls and gingham aprons, it's almost a pity you have to be a glamour queen."

Chapter 19

JULIE didn't hear Kay's light step as she came into the bedroom. Standing before the full length mirror Julie was saying the name over slowly, "Mercedes La Cava."

"Trying on your new name for size?" Kay laughed.

Julie felt the color in her cheeks.

"It seems so strange after you've had one name all your life so suddenly be told that from now on it will be something different."

"Those studio publicity men certainly picked a fancy one while they were about it," Kay said, and then quickly added, "but I do like the sound of it." Makes you think of a beautiful woman of mystery."

"I guess by now Marek thinks I am somewhat of a mystery," Julie laughed. "Maybe that had something to do with it."

The blast of Jack's horn sent the girls dashing into their overalls.

"There's 'never-late Parker'!" Kay said. "Honestly, that guy plays it so his car rolls to a stop at our curbstone at exactly the same second every night."

"We're lucky he promised to be our steady ride," Julie retorted. "Think of the trouble some of the girls have with late rides!"

"Oh I'm not complaining," Kay grinned.

JACK swung out of the car and opened the door for the girls as they came down the walk. Kay with a sparkle of mischief in her eyes stopped directly in front of him.

"I want you to meet my new friend," she said with formal stiffness. "Miss Mercedes La Cava, Mr. Jack Parker."

Jack looked puzzled and ran his fingers through his thick auburn hair.

"What's the gag?" he asked. Kay couldn't keep from laughing.

smooth efficiency of a precision machine. The hours until the rest period seemed to pass like minutes. She felt the increasing tempo of excitement as she thought of the brilliant career that lay ahead of her. She had met a crisis in her life and taken it in her stride.

THE bell for the rest period rang sharply. Julie joined the others in the surge toward the cafeteria. Inching along in the slowly moving line past steam tables and huge trays of food Julie picked out a ham sandwich and a cup of coffee.

The glass topped table accommodated eight and there were already seven workers eating hungrily when Julie edged her tray onto the crowded table and sat down. The girl next to her was leaning through a magazine. Suddenly she looked up at Julie and smiled. Julie's eyes followed her finger to the page of photographs.

"My gosh, sister, you look enough like this new La Cava woman to be her twin," the girl said.

Julie smiled. "There is a slight resemblance, but her face is much rounder than mine."

"Yeah, I guess you're right," the girl admitted. "But for a second there it was quite a jolt." She kept looking from the pictures to Julie. Suddenly she said in a loud voice that brought the attention of everyone at the table.

"I want to find out, that's what I want to find out. I'm going to pass this magazine around the table. See how many of you guys think these pictures of the new movie star Mercedes La Cava look like this gal next to me?"

Each worker looked with interest at the pictures and then across at Julie. Julie could feel her face redden.

"I don't see much resemblance," one middle-aged woman said.

"They can do anything with make-up," said another. "I know. I used to work in the make-up department."

"I'd say she looked enough like her to apply for a job as stand-in," one red-headed youth suggested.

The magazine had gone the rounds. Its owner was still staring at her face when Julie left the table.

Julie got up at two that afternoon and slipped into her flannel robe and slippers quietly so as not to waken Kay still sleeping soundly in the other twin bed. She had heard the mailman when he slid a letter under their door.

Her mother's handwriting was on the envelope. She was conscious of the familiar pang of disappointment that it wasn't from Dave. As she was taking the letter from the envelope a yellow piece of paper fluttered to the floor. She picked it up and gasped. It was a check for a thousand dollars!

She read her mother's letter through once hurriedly and then again more slowly.

"Mr. Cooper sold the house last week to the Elk's Club," it said. "The price I had to take for it was ridiculous but when you're in need, people always manage to take advantage of you. Especially a lone woman. This is part of the down payment. There'll be more later."

Julie felt dazed as she walked back to the bedroom clutching the check in her hand. She took a shower and dressed. She was just taking her new white purse from the drawer when Kay raised up on one elbow and looked at her sleepily.

"Where you going so dressed up?" she said between a yawn.

"I'm walking over to the studio. I want to talk to Marek." She took the check from the dresser and went over and sat on the side of Kay's bed. She handed it to her without saying a word.

"A thousand dollars!" Kay breathed in stunned amazement. "Is there really that much money left in the world?"

"Mother sold the house," Julie said simply.

Kay stared at the yellow paper. "I've often wondered what I'd do if I ever got my mitts on that much money all at one time," she muttered.

Julie felt strength and hope surge through her as she walked briskly under the arch of shimmering pepper trees. There was a spicy sweetness in the air and the breeze came down the hills cool and fresh.

The uniformed guard at the studio desk smiled as he saw her swinging through the door in her new white silk sport dress and perky white hat.

TIMELY PATRIOTISM

In times like these, every one on the home-front wants to buy as many war bonds as possible. But it's hard to buy bonds when old bills are still unpaid. If this is your problem, see us about it. There should be a way to make your 1944 income cover not only your current expenses, but any past-due bills as well. One of our loan plans can help you clean up the bills, and start buying bonds, too.

Local Man Is Believed Victim Of Exposure

A double investigation has been under way the past two days by members of the Warren police department and the coroner's office into the circumstances surrounding the death of Anthony Santo Graziano, 33, better known to a host of friends in Warren as "Tony", whose body was found early Sunday morning on the path leading from the Pennsylvania railroad freight house to the home of his parents, at 1109 Spring street. It was apparent he had been dead for several hours.

Discovery of the tragedy was made when the family, becoming alarmed over the fact that he had not appeared at home at five o'clock Sunday morning, started a search for him. A few moments later the body was found slumped near a corner pole of a chicken coop on an adjoining property. He was carried into the home and the Gibson ambulance summoned but it was found that death had occurred some time before. There were a couple of brush burns on the forehead and an indentation in the skin left when he fell upon a board. Supposition of the officials is that he became ill while on his way home, and was bracing himself against the post when he collapsed accidentally striking his head in such manner as to make him temporarily unconscious, during which time he may have been overcome by exposure to the sub-zero temperature. He had been employed at the Arcade bowling alleys as a pinboy, but did not work Saturday evening. He was in and out of the place between eight and eleven. Police are endeavoring to trace his movements after that time.

"Tony" was born in Warren February 26, 1911, son of Mr. and Mrs. Felice Graziano, who survive with the following brothers and sisters: Frank, Joseph, Thomas, Anna and Theresa at home; Peter Falconer, N. Y.; Pfc. William Graziano, Fort Monroe, Va.; Corp. Victor Graziano, Alliance, Neb. He was a member of St. Joseph's church.

The body was taken in charge by Leo D. Gibson, and removal is being made to the home in Spring street today, where the parish rosary will be sung Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. Funeral services will be held from St. Joseph's church Wednesday morning at ten o'clock, and interment will follow in St. Joseph's cemetery.

News of the untimely passing of the popular young man was received as a profound shock by a large number of friends to whom he had endeared himself through his friendly personality.

NOONDAY PRAYER SERIES ANNOUNCED

Plans were completed at this morning's session of Warren County Ministerial Association for a series of noonday prayer services to mark the opening of the Lenten season and to be held in First Baptist church daily from Tuesday through Friday of this week. The services begin at 11:30 a. m. and continue until approximately noon. All who can plan to attend these services are extended a cordial invitation to do so.

TOMORROW LEGAL HOLIDAY

Tomorrow, Washington's Birthday, is a legal holiday and the banks, post office and state offices will be closed. It is asked that all flags about the city be flown during the day.

DOING CONSTRUCTION WORK

Linenmen for the Pennsylvania Electric Company have been doing some extensive construction and repair work about the city for some time past. They have set a number of new poles, new transformers and have strung much new wiring during the time they have been at work.

SALE A SUCCESS

Dollar Days proved one of the most successful selling events held by Warren merchants during the past few months. The merchants had entered into the affair wholeheartedly and offered a series of bargains that proved most pleasing. All were pleased with the success of the event and the folk who were present at the sales were delighted with the splendid offerings which they secured.

MET WITH SUCCESS

Representatives of Struthers-Wells Company, Saturday morning hired a group of women at the Federal Employment office. The women will form the next class to be formed in welding. Women are taking hold of this work in fine shape and there is now a large number of women at work in the plant doing this class of work which is light and not too hard to do. The new class will begin training at once.

In some occupied countries of Europe, the average death age has fallen by more than ten years due to malnutrition, Federal reports indicate.

Rationed Motorists Now Get Extra Gasoline Mileage

All over the country, thousands of rationed car owners, truck fleets, taxi cabs, motorcycles and tractor owners report gasoline savings up to 30%. These people have been enjoying extra gasoline mileage by installing a Vacuum-matic to their carburetor. This new device is entirely automatic. Nothing to regulate or adjust and can be installed in 10 minutes. The Vacuum-matic Co., 7617-857-C State St., Wauwatosa (13) Wisconsin, are offering a Vacuum-matic free to anybody who will install it on their car and help introduce it to others. Write them today or just send your name and address on a penny post card.

Minstrels To Rank Among The Best Yet

The 1944 edition of the North Warren Minstrels will be presented on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 28-29, it is announced today.

Director "Rusty" Dietch, more popularly known as "The Old Minstrel Maestro", has been rehearsing his large cast for several weeks and made known today the dates set for production.

With many new and outstanding members in the cast, the production will be an entirely new show throughout. Yet Director Dietch promises that it will not be lacking in the old time minstrel flavor which has brought much acclaim in previous presentations by this North Warren group.

Norman Cobb, who recently spent two weeks at home with his father, E. L. Cobb, Pennsylvania avenue, east, has been transferred from Great Lakes, Ill., to Norman, Okla.

Mrs. Gussie Winsor, North South street, has had word from Michael Cebra, formerly of Warren and now somewhere in England, that he has been promoted to private first class.

Ensign Homer Preston, who has been at Fort Schuyler, N. Y., and reports for duty at Fort Pierce, Fla., on February 25, is home on a brief leave with his mother, Mrs. Fred Ludwig, at Lander.

Sgt. Lynn Beach has returned to Camp Pickett, Va., after a three-day pass at home with his wife and family.

Pvt. Raymond Falconer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Falconer, of Lander, is home on ten-day furlough from Fort Bragg, N. C.

Word was received here over the weekend that Major and Mrs. Paul B. Stewart are leaving today for their new service post in Roswell, N. M., where Major Stewart has been assigned to the 1844th unit, Eighth Service Command. He was recently sent to Harmon General Hospital in Longview, Tex.

Robert Williams, Sugar Grove boy who is on the west coast with a Ranger unit, is home until Thursday to visit his family.

Mrs. Esther O'Green received a telephone call from her son, Paul E. Wallin, from New York on Sunday. He had been enroute from Africa for three months, and is now visiting in Mt. Jewett.

WILLOW CREEK

Willow Creek, Feb. 14—Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Pettit and family of Tonawanda, N. Y., former local residents, were recent visitors here.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Talerico, who moved to Bradford several months ago from here, have recently moved back to this community.

Miss Kate Carr of Bradford was here recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crandall and daughters, Miss Marjorie Holsinger, and Mrs. Philip Dewey and daughter, Nancy, of Bradford, were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis B. Holsinger yesterday.

Mrs. Philip Dewey and infant daughter have moved to Bradford.

Phillip Rose of Bradford was a recent visitor here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Krouse and sons have moved to Buffalo. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Rodgers and son Russell, of Quaker Bridge visited the former's parents here recently.

Paul Cobb, former second class, spent a leave with her family in Glendon. He has been transferred from Newport, R. I., to Boston, Mass., for basic engineering training. While on furlough, he visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey H. Cobb.

Mr. Albert Cobb of Bradford.

Lenten Regulations Read In Catholic Churches of Diocese

The following Lenten regulations were read Sunday in St. Joseph's and Holy Redeemer as well as all Catholic churches throughout the diocese:

1. All the days of Lent, except Sundays, are fast days. The Lenten fast ends at noon on Holy Saturday.

2. All between the ages of 21 and 59 are obliged to fast, except the sick and convalescent; women in delicate health and condition; those to whom fasting would cause grave injury to health, or would produce such illness or exhaustion as would interfere with their daily duties; and those whose occupations are of a very laborious and exhausting nature. Those who doubt whether they are excused or not, should consult their confessor.

3. Those obliged to fast are allowed but one meal, either at noon or in the evening.

4. During Lent every Wednesday and Friday are days of abstinence. However, by special privilege of the Holy See, working people and their families are obliged to abstain from meat only on Ash Wednesday and Fridays. On all other days of abstinence those of the family who are obliged to fast may eat meat at their principal meal; those not obliged to fast may eat meat at any of their meals.

5. Those who are excused from fasting or abstinence during Lent should practice self-denial in some other way.

6. The usual Lenten devotions will be provided in all the churches of the diocese, and the faithful should endeavor by earnest prayer, heartfelt contrition, and the worthy receiving of the sacraments to profit by the special graces of the holy season. Attendance at theaters and dances, and indulgence in intoxicating liquor is opposed to the spirit of Lent. These practices should be discouraged.

7. The time for complying with the precept of the Paschal Communion extends, as heretofore, from the first Sunday of Lent to Trinity Sunday.

JOHN NMARK GANNON
N. B.—The Rt. Rev. Very Rev. and Rev. Pastors are reminded to place boxes in the church for the Lenten alms for the Holy Father.

Columbus To Erect Honor Roll at Library

The directors of the Dutton Public Library at Columbus met last week at the home of Albert Sandburg and elected Mrs. Charles Swanson as a director. Other business brought before the session included a proposal by J. H. Reagle and Leslie Dodd, who represented the Parent-Teacher Association in the matter of placing an honor roll for Columbus men in service.

It was suggested that the honor roll be placed on the lawn in front of the library building and be lighted at night from the building itself. Mr. Reagle and Mr. Dodd have the project about completed and an affirmative vote having been recorded by the library board will place it before the library.

The directors announced that new books have been placed in the library and are available for the public's use. The volumes in the library now number over 2000.

Chapter 18

JULIE awoke at two next afternoon to the enticing aroma of coffee and sizzling bacon, and Kay's cheerful whistle from the kitchen.

Julie showered quickly, brushed her dark waves of her hair with fast deft strokes and coiled it low about her head. In five minutes she was in the kitchen fresh in a gayly-flowered gingham and wedgies.

Kay gave her a grin of friendly malice. "I tried the navy song first," she said, "then the army, then the marines. I don't know why I didn't think of the air corps tune sooner."

Julie laughed. "It wasn't your singing that woke me. It was the bacon. How'd you ever happen to get it?"

Kay winked. "System," she murmured, breaking the eggs into the skillet. "I'll show you when we go shopping this afternoon. Turn the toast, will you? Have a good time last night?"

Julie nodded happily. As they lingered over their breakfast in the sunny kitchenette, Julie told Kay of the fabulous evening at Marek's Hollywood apartment. Of the fascinating discussion of her picture.

Kay nodded understandingly. "No one in the world makes better noises than directors and producers when they're talking shop," she said. "What alibi did you give Marek for standing him up last night?"

"I told him the truth."

KAY stared at her, her toast stopped halfway to her mouth. "You mean you told him you went out with another man?" Julie nodded.

Kay murmured with awe, one eyebrow cocked. "And he talked of starting you in the picture after that?"

Julie took a sip of coffee. "Why shouldn't he?" she argued. "Because," said Kay. "Marek Dorri just isn't the kind of guy to be pushed around. He does the moving when there's shoving to do. And he's in love with you."

Sudden pink spots appeared in Julie's ivory cheeks. Her voice lowered. "He said—when I was on top the glamor around I love have Dave— if I still wanted him . . ." she said slowly.

KAY let out her held breath in a sort of puzzled amusement, and helped herself to marmalade. "I don't get it," she admitted. "Burk around I love. Maybe he did recognize genius in you. Maybe all his concern is what he'd lavish on any valuable studio property. I don't know. I was just an extra myself. Maybe I'm sentimental."

After breakfast, Julie insisted on washing the dishes, but Kay was adamant.

"No you don't, kiddo," she said. "You're spoiling your hands fast enough at night. I'm doing the extra dirty work around here. You'd look funny having to take a week off when your studio call came to get rid of dishpan hands."

So Julie wiped. Kay complimented her.

"It's fun," Julie laughed. "At least it's fun to do with you. You enjoy it, don't you?"

"This apartment isn't housework," scoffed Kay. "It's child's play. You ought to have a sixteen-room Minnesota farmhouse—with eight brothers to pick up after, and milk to put through the separator at night and morning and chickens to feed and a calf to nurse."

While they ran the sweeper through the small rooms and aired the beds, Kay told Julie of her large and energetic family, now scattered across the continent in six states, besides swelling the ranks of army and navy.

"I should think your mother would be worried sick all the time about all of you."

Kay looked up from her counting of the laundry with a smiling shake of her blonde head. "She isn't the worrying kind."

"Some people are the some aren't. She said once she tried it, but she didn't know which of us to start worrying about. So she gave it up. She has a wonderful time getting letters and spreading the news to the others."

Julie sighed. "What a wonderful way to live. What's the secret of it?"

KAY laughed. "Nothing. I was just thinking, you look so darn cute in overalls and gingham aprons. It's almost a pity you have to be a glamour queen."

Julie was filled with admiration and enthusiasm. "Why can't we rent a lot and make a garden?" she wondered. "I think it would be fun."

"It would be all right!" Kay agreed eagerly. "We might even jerk Jake away from his books some days. Best thing in the world for him."

THEY had a merry time in the market. Kay flattered the vegetable man and flirted outrageously with the butcher, explaining to Julie loudly it was the only way to get good food these days. Everyone had a quip for Kay and a friendly grin for Julie.

Life seemed for the moment bright and uncomplicated. Julie was humming as they strolled homeward with their parcels.

She turned suddenly to find Kay's eyes on her in a quizzical look.

"What's the matter?"

Kay laughed. "Nothing. I was just thinking, you look so darn cute in overalls and gingham aprons. It's almost a pity you have to be a glamour queen."

Julie was filled with admiration and enthusiasm. "Why can't we rent a lot and make a garden?" she wondered. "I think it would be fun."

Chapter 19

JULIE didn't hear Kay's light step as she came into the bedroom. Standing before the full length mirror Julie was saying the name over slowly, "Mercedes La Cava."

"Trying on your new name for size?" Kay laughed.

Julie felt the color in her cheeks. "It seems so strange after you've had one name all your life so suddenly to be told that from now on it will be something different."

"Those studio publicity men certainly picked a fancy one while they were about it," Kay said, and then quickly added, "but I do like the sound of it." Makes you think of a beautiful woman of mystery."

"I guess by now Marek thinks I am somewhat of a mystery," Julie laughed. "Maybe that had something to do with it."

The blast of Jack's horn sent the girls dashing into their overalls.

"There's 'never-late Parker,'" Kay said. "Honestly, that guy plans it so his car rolls to a stop at our curbstone at exactly the same second every night."

"We're lucky he promised to be our steady ride," Julie retorted. "Think of the trouble some of the girls have with late rides!"

"Oh I'm not complaining," Kay grinned.

JACK swung out of the car and opened the door for the girls as they came down the walk. Kay with a sparkle of mischief in her eyes stopped directly in front of him.

"I want you to meet my new friend," she said with formal stiffness. "Miss Mercedes La Cava. Mr. Jack Parker."

Jack looked puzzled and ran his fingers through his thick, dark hair.

smooth efficiency of a precision machine. The hours until the rest period seemed to pass like minutes. She felt the increasing tempo of excitement as she thought of the brilliant career that lay ahead of her. She had met a crisis in her life and taken it in her stride.

THE bell for the rest period rang sharply. Julie joined the others in the surge toward the cafeteria. Inching along in the slowly moving line past steam tables and huge trays of food Julie picked out a ham sandwich and a cup of coffee.

The glass topped table accommodated eight and there were already seven workers eating hungrily when Julie edged her tray onto the crowded table and sat down. The girl next to her was leafing through a magazine. Suddenly she looked up at Julie and smiled. Julie's eyes followed her finger to the page of photographs.

"My gosh, sister, you look enough like this new La Cava woman to be her twin," the girl said.

Julie smiled. "There is a slight resemblance, but her face is much rounder than mine."

"Yeah, I guess you're right," the girl admitted. "But for a second there it was quite a jolt." She kept looking from the pictures to Julie. Suddenly she said in a loud voice that brought the attention of everyone at the table.

"Maybe I'm nuts, that's what I want to find out, but I'm going to pass this magazine around the table. See how many of you guys think these pictures of the new movie star Mercedes La Cava look like this gal next to me?"

Each worker looked with interest at the pictures and then across at Julie. Julie could feel her face redden.

"I don't see much resemblance," one middle-aged woman said.

"They can do anything with make-up," said another. "I know I used to work in the make-up department."

"I'd say she looked enough like her to apply for a job as stand-in," one red-headed youth suggested.

The magazine had gone the rounds. Its owner was still staring at her face when Julie left the table.

Julie got up at two that afternoon and slipped into her flannel

robe and slippers quietly so as not to waken Kay still sleeping soundly in the other twin bed. She had picked it up and gaped. It was a check for a thousand dollars.

She read her mother's letter through once hurriedly and then again more slowly.

"Mr. Cooper sold the house last week to the Elk's Club," it said. "The price I had to take for it was ridiculous, but when you're in need, people always manage to take advantage of you. Especially a lone woman. This is part of the down payment. There'll be more later."

Julie felt dazed as she walked back to the bedroom clutching the check in her hand. She took a shower and dressed. She was just taking her new white purse from the drawer when Kay raised up on one elbow and looked at her sleepily.

"Where you going so dressed up?" she said between a yawn.

"I'm walking over to the studio. I want to talk to Marek." She took the check from the dresser and went over and sat on the side of Kay's bed. She handed it to her without saying a word.

"A thousand dollars!" Kay breathed in stunned amazement. "Is there really that much money left in the world?"

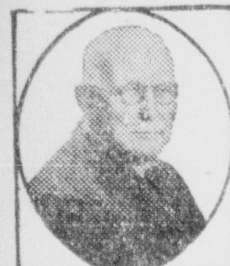

"Mother sold the house," Julie said simply.

Kay stared at the yellow paper. "I've often wondered what I'd do if I ever got my mitts on that much money all at one time," she muttered.

Julie felt strength and hope surge through her as she walked briskly under the arch of shimmering pepper trees. There was a spicy sweetness in the air and the breeze came down the hills cool and fresh.

The uniformed guard at the studio desk smiled as he saw her swinging through the door in her new white silk sport dress and perky white hat.

FIGHTING TEARS

At the end of each day during the Sicilian campaign, a group of correspondents would gather for a briefing by a colonel of the Regular Army on the progress and significance of the fighting. One evening they were astonished to see that the colonel had tears in his eyes as he began speaking.

They asked the reason. And this was the answer of a tough and capable officer who had spent his life as a soldier: "As I was coming up the road I saw a jeep that had been hit by a shell and turned over in the ditch. Painted on the side of it was the name 'Jennie.' And I got to wondering who the girl was for whom that jeep was named, and thinking about how she is going to feel when she knows what has happened."

In a story from the South Pacific, Seaman Kenneth Walsh wrote, "Those are tears you see in the eyes of these hard-bitten veterans as they watch the baskets being lowered to the dock and draped with the flag for which the dead have given their lives."

The chief surgeon of the hospital tent which was bombed on the Anzio beachhead was describing the explosion. As he told the death of his sergeant, "his eyes suddenly filled with tears," said the reporter who interviewed him.

We should be proud to read such stories as these. We should be proud to know that the American soldier is a soldier who fights with tears in his eyes. It is no sign of weakness, for his tears are tears of anger, as well as of sorrow and compassion.

The enemy has reared and nourished his youth on the pagan, barbaric doctrine that war is glorious, that the state of war is the normal and healthy state of mankind. Bruno Mussolini proudly wrote a description of his warped emotions as he watched his bombs drop on defenseless Ethiopians. German airmen sang their rousing war songs as they took off to bomb England. The Jap made war the excuse for an orgy of slaughter such as the civilized world has not known for centuries.

The American soldier hates war. He fights to finish it, not to bathe in false glory. He is not immune to the suffering, and he can weep without shame at the loss of a comrade. But he can also fight with selfless, matchless courage to avenge that comrade.

The soldier who weeps is the same soldier of whose heroism and devotion and sacrifice we have read so many times since this war began. He is the man who, in the midst of war, still considers one human life to be precious and important.

RECIPE FOR FRIENDSHIP

Someone has said that the dog is the only creature maintained by man in return for nothing but love. The statement interests me because of its bearing on human relations, says Channing Pollock in an article in the current issue of Your Life.

Which is the dog we like best and most quickly? Why, of course, the one that runs up to us wagging its tail and asking for friendship. He has only to be good-humored and full of confidence and affection to make us prefer him to any whining or surly prize-winner of a dozen shows. A mongrel he may be, his coat shabby and his ears flapping in the breeze, but his heart has gone out to us, and, immediately, ours goes out to him.

I suspect that the art of making and keeping friends is almost as simple as that.

TRANQUILITY

"The life of Germans today is not luxurious," says a Nazi broadcast, "but... a natural life, tranquil, secure and without surprises."

Yes, there must be some reassurance in the knowledge that the boys in the Army are getting nearer home every day, and that visitors from across the channel can be depended on to drop in any time that the weather's not too bad.

Just by way of reminder—don't try to break into any banks tomorrow. Washington's birthday is a legal holiday and the money institutions will be closed. Incidentally, reference to the Birthday list on this page reveals many Times-Mirror readers were born February 22d.

For once the Weatherman smiled on Warren merchants for Dollar Days, and his cooperation certainly was an important factor in bringing the crowds into town Saturday afternoon and evening.

Now that the price of eggs is down there doesn't seem to be so much of a "scramble" for them

The Pacific Colossus Gets a Hotfoot

Washington in Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The acoustics of the Senate chamber have been exonerated numerous times. Often newsmen, in the centrally located news gallery just over the vice president's rostrum, have dashed to the back stairs and the floor to find out what a senator said. The high vaulted ceiling, now buttressed with steel girders, makes it virtually impossible to do anything about it.

Both Senate and House chambers were designed in days when political victory depended more on a lusty pair of vocal bellows than it does in these days of loud speakers, radio, and public address systems. In the House, all speakers have to come to the front of the chamber and use the public address microphone which blows up a whisper. In the Senate, such procedure would, I suppose, be considered undignified and a nuisance. The only solution offered so far was by a gallery hopper who complained that he couldn't see how the senators could ever hear each other. He suggested traveling "mikes" which the page boys would dash up and attach to a senator's desk as soon as he arose to speak. The way unlimited debate runs in the senate, that would necessitate a page to every senator.

IT HASN'T been mentioned publicly, but it's very likely that the outcome of the soldiers' vote bill will probably determine the date of the Democratic convention. Rep. Hagen has committed himself but friends say he will run again this year under the G.O.P. banner in spite of the fact that his party is merging with Democrats.

Minnesota once had two Farmer-Labor senators and five members of the House. Now both senators and all of its eight other congressmen are Republicans. Rep. Hagen has committed himself but friends say he will run again this year under the G.O.P. banner in spite of the fact that his party is merging with Democrats.

Hollywood Gossip

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — The Sinatra said it was this way. He said, "Sure, it's true about my fighter. Crosby likes horses, (Dan) Topping likes football teams, and I like a fighter. I've always been nuts about the fight game. And why not?"

So he told us why. His dad used to fight, using the name of Marty O'Brien. His uncle used to fight. His uncle was Young Segar, and...

"He was good. About a hundred different people told me who saw him fight... told me he came pretty close to the batonweight champ's spot."

And Frankie himself—he used to fight. Neighborhood stuff, mostly for fun, he said. He grew up in the kind of neighborhood, in Hoboken, N. J., where a kid had to be handy with his dukes or get conked. Once Frankie thought he'd like to be a pro but was cured when he got conked, proper, once too often. The cure came with a pop-bottle conk, inflicted by a neighborhood...

WE talked to Frankie between autographs on the set of his new movie, now labeled as "Sinatra No. 2." Wherever the Voice is, there's a pen or pencil sticking out, and he signs the papers every one. We remarked how strange it was that Sinatra had to buy a piece of a fighter—Tami Mauriello, a long-time friend—

President, himself, would like to see the Democratic convention as late as possible. The factors that will determine a fourth term should be known before the nominations for President and vice president are made. A reasonable guess can be made about them if the Democratic convention is timed as close as possible to the November elections.

However, if the soldiers' vote bill is finally passed in some form that will assure most of the several million overseas men a vote, the Democrats won't dare risk not getting their nominees on the ballots in time to reach the fighting fronts.

July 17, three weeks after the Republican convention, is now mentioned as the Democrats' most likely date, but it is unlikely that any time will be announced until the soldiers' vote bill is either in the bag or out. If it's out, the date may be late August.

SO FAR as I know, Rep. Harold Hagen, Minn., is the only man in Congress without benefit of party. Hagen was elected by the Farmer-Labor party, which has since started a move to liquidate itself by merging with the Minnesota Democrats.

Minnesota once had two Farmer-Labor senators and five members of the House. Now both senators and all of its eight other congressmen are Republicans. Rep. Hagen has committed himself but friends say he will run again this year under the G.O.P. banner in spite of the fact that his party is merging with Democrats.

before his sports enthusiasms became known. "It was buried under the swifter stuff," he said. "I'd like to buy a basketball team, too. That's a great sport and it ought to be more popular in America." (Frankie was on the varsity five at Demarest High, Hoboken.) "I'm not planning to make any money on Tami—I just want to see the kid get a break, and get the money that's coming to him." (Frankie has $10,000, or a third interest, in Tami. He himself was once "split" four ways, didn't care for it.)

SO having been explained, we swung to the supposed Crosby-Sinatra feud. "Bing's the greatest guy in the world," said Frankie. "When they talk about crooners, Bing is in a class by himself—and the rest, Perry Como, Dick Haymes, Sinatra and so on, battle it out for second place."

And the swooners? Well—Frankie's loyal to them as they to him. "They're nice youngsters," he said. "They're writing for pictures of my daughter, Nancy, now, and sending her presents. What could be sweeter than that? Nobody thinks they're crazy if they wear Roosevelt or Willie buttons, but when they wear Sinatra buttons and have Sinatra clubs it's supposed to be something else—and they can't vote for a president but they can vote for Sinatra."

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver and Robin McKown

One weekend back in the age of automobile pleasure trips, the writer Anya Seton and her husband went for a drive up the Hudson River Valley region. It was on this trip that an old manor, alleged to be haunted, was pointed out to her.

ANYA SETON

She made other visits to this region after that and became increasingly interested in the life that flourished along the river a hundred years ago. Out of her research has come her exciting novel, "Dragonwyck," about a haunted house and the people who lived in it.

The story concerns Nicholas Van Ryn, who ruled estates of Dragonwyck in a system of medieval feudalism; of Joanna, his fat and food-loving wife, and her mysterious death; and Miranda, the golden-haired romantic young girl who unwittingly becomes involved in the sinister fortunes of the great house. Among the personages who play an incidental part in this story are a tortured young poet named Edgar Allan Poe, a sailor, Herman Melville, whose powerful first novel, "Typee" causes such a stir in literary circles, Mr. P. T. Barnum and Tom Thumb, and Martin Van Buren.

Anya Seton is the daughter of Ernest Thompson Seton, who many years ago won over the youth of America with his stories of animals and wildlife. "Dragonwyck" appeared originally in the Ladies Home Journal and is on the way to becoming a major film.

The Book-of-the-Month Club announces as its April selection, "Blessed Are The Meek," a novel of the time of St. Francis, by the noted Polish author, Zofia Kossak. "Blessed Are The Meek" will be published by Roy Publishers, formerly one of the leading publishers of Poland, now established in the United States.

Jesse Stuart reports that one-fourth of the entire population of his home town—Greenup, Kentucky—is reading his novel, "Taps For Private Tussie." Greenup's population is 1,125. "The old men back in the hills are having their glasses refilled so they can read my book," writes Jesse. "Many of them can't read a chapter in a day they read so slowly. Yet they are reading it."

Afternoon Ceremony in Corry Church Unites Mary R. Walling, Dr. Beardsley

Many from Warren and vicinity were in Corry Saturday afternoon to attend the four o'clock wedding of Mary Roberts Walling, daughter of Commander and Mrs. Ralph Gordon Walling, 102 West Smith street, and Dr. Frederick Amour Beardsley, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Beardsley, 414 West Fifth avenue, Warren.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. E. H. VanHouten in Emmanuel Episcopal church, where white flowers and ferns provided a lovely background for the bride in her frock of white faille, fashioned with sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and full skirt and train falling from a bodice fitted to the hips. Her three-quarter length veil fell from a Juliet cap of the same material and she carried a spray bouquet of white flowers.

Her only attendant was Miss

Social Events

LENTEN OBSERVANCE BEGINS AT TRINITY

The observance of Lent in Trinity Memorial church will begin with the celebration of the Holy Communion on Ash Wednesday morning at ten o'clock. The period from 12:05 to 12:15 will be devoted to prayers for our country and those in service and, at 7:30 p. m., there will be the penitential office and address by Rector Beecher M. Rutledge.

This last will be the first in a series of Wednesday evening addresses during the Lenten season on "Faith, Worship and Practices of the Episcopal Church" and a question period will be conducted by the rector at each of these services. A cordial invitation is extended to all who care to attend.

GIRL SCOUTS VISIT FACTORY

Girl Scouts of Troop 11 who have been working on their cooking badges enjoyed a pleasant tour of the Walker ice cream factory, arranged by Mrs. Claude Barlow. Girls in the party were Carol Niver, Mary Louise Hibner, Joan Carlson, Lois Carlson, Gay Fisher, Patty MacFarlane, Annette Swanson, Mary Jane and Jennie Mae Bangini. The troop leader is Mrs. Robert Carlson.

PHILADELPHIA PARTY OF INTEREST HERE

Former Warrenites now in Philadelphia were guests for a very pleasant get-together and Valentine shower given by Jean Ann Clark and Mrs. Tom Gettings at the latter's home on Spruce street last week. In attendance were Betsy Thomas, Mrs. Bill Anderson, Mary Jane Holcomb, Virginia Smith, Winnie Blastic, Joanne McGarry and Dorothy Ann Harris.

MEDICAL AUXILIARY

The "white elephant" auction which was conducted by Mrs. J. F. Crane at the February meeting of Warren County Medical Auxiliary proved both amusing and profitable for the group. The meeting, held at the home of Mrs. Hugh R. Robertson, West Third avenue, followed a delicious tureen dinner. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Crane and Mrs. R. F. Otterbein.

MOTHERS' CIRCLE PLANS ANNIVERSARY

Every member of the Jackson Run Mothers' Circle is asked to attend the meeting to be held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Dove, 309 Jackson avenue, since arrangements are to be made at this time for the 29th anniversary party in March.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Margaret Zundel Missionary Society members of First Lutheran church will meet in the parish house at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday and all are asked to be present for discussion of important business. The topic will be in charge of Jeanette Cable and each one is asked to bring cookies for mailing to soldiers.

False Teeth That Looser Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FAS-TEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FAS-TEETH at any drug store. (adv.)

JUDGE WADE SPOKE

In spite of heavy snowfall that made driving hazardous, a crowd of sixty was in attendance at the February meeting of the Washington P.T.A. During the business session a discussion was held regarding the necessity for a watchman at the three dangerous railroad crossings used by the school busses in present detour and Mrs. Hannold and E. D. Champion were appointed to see the proper authorities to arrange for same. The attendance award went to Miss Brennan's room and a collection for Founders' Day Fund was received.

At the conclusion of the business meeting the guest speaker, Judge Allison D. Wade, was introduced and his informal speech was thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated by both adults and young people. The Judge paid a special tribute to our boys and girls in service who are making it possible for us to enjoy our liberties and reminded us that while they are giving their all, the least we can do is to try to understand and direct the dynamic force present in our young people at home so that those in service will have something worthwhile to come home to after the war.

He quoted statistics from Edgar Hoover showing prevalence of crime of all kinds among youth under twenty and stated that in his own district 60 per cent of the District Attorney's time and 50 per cent of Judge's time is occupied with juvenile crime. Judge Wade reminded us that prevention of crime is always better than an attempted cure after a crime has been committed and that crime affects every member of society. He urged the cooperation of all groups to try and reach the potential criminal before he becomes a menace.

Following the address a play, "Building for True Victory" was presented in a splendid manner by members of Pleasant P.T.A. assisted by a girls' trio whose singing occasioned much favorable comment. In conclusion a lunch was served by girls of seventh and eighth grades at tables beautifully decorated in keeping with Valentine season. A Founders' Day birthday cake presented by Mrs. Hannold was an added attraction.

Wac Shows Off Her Pin-up Boys

Showing off her pin-up boys on the door of her locker, Private Blanche Wassum of the Women's Army Corps says she's just "Mom" to them. When her two sons, David L. and John W. Wassum, joined the Army, "Mom" Wassum refused to be left behind. She works at the photographic laboratory of the Hondo Army Air Field, Texas.

EXTRA SUPPLY OF COAL BROUGHT OUT SUNDAY

Wilkes-Barre, Feb. 21.—(P)—An extra supply of anthracite was on the nation's stockpile today after thousands of hard coal miners put in an extra day on the job yesterday, complying with Secretary Ickes' request for Sunday production this month to ease the east's critical shortage.

Unofficial reports showed that about 90 per cent of the 80,000 mine workers—or the same number as last Sunday—went into the pits.

With his cigar at a jaunty angle, Churchill poked through the rubble and chatted with workers cleaning up the area.

When word of his presence spread, clerks on their lunchhour left their sandwiches and surged into the street, causing a traffic jam.

GUFFEY PRAISES POLES

Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—(P)—Senator Guffey (D-Ga.) says Poles should remember the German conquest when they are "tempted to protest about post-war frontiers and the unreasonable of Allies." "Poles can best serve Poland by remembering that the real fury which fell on their country came from a Nazi Germany," he told the Polish-American Citizens League of Pennsylvania at a dinner meeting. He praised Poland as an ally.

Coppers Busy With Yowling Dogs In Town

Jerry Parks, who speeds his motorcycle to folks in distress and who call for a cop Saturday was given a ring to rescue a dog from the river. Jerry had visions of a pup struggling in the icy waters and of shoving out a plant or maybe calling the firemen to rescue the pup. However after he had chugged as all get out to see the "dog" taking wing and fly away. It was a duck that had been carrying in the river and had caused someone to think it was a dog. Jerry watched the duck fly away, drew a sigh of relief and chugged back to the station.

Dogs over the weekend gave to coppers plenty of excitement as they howled here, there and everywhere much to consternation of the staid burghers who enjoy an extra doozie on Sunday. One dog had bitten a child and police investigated and others merely howled, barked and yowled.

And at 8:45 a. m. a woman exercised her prerogative of changing her mind and get her automobile bumped as a consequence. She was driving on Pennsylvania avenue and intended to continue onto Third avenue but changed her mind and veered onto Pennsylvania avenue just in time to meet a west bound car. There was no great damage and both cars were insured so the cops made out a report, drew a map of the crash and let it go at that.

And incidentally the coppers tried a half hundred doors and found a few unlocked on which they sprung a lock or two and formed a phalanx and escorted money from stores and theatres to the bank. And with Dollar Day on the money bags were just a bit heavier than usual.

GARLAND

Garland—Edward Etec of the U. S. Navy is at home on a furlough. He has been stationed in Florida. Walter Stec, who has been for some time in the state of Washington, employed by the government in the shipyards, is also at home for a short stay with his parents. Another son, Tony, has been for some time with the Army in England.

Mr. and Mrs. Seth Holmes have announced the engagement of their second daughter, Marian, to David Shannon. Miss Holmes is a freshman in Houghton College. The young man is in the U. S. Navy and is stationed at Sampson, N. Y.

Mrs. Alice Coon returned from the Warren General Hospital on Tuesday with her infant daughter. Edward Leofsky is at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Leofsky, on his first furlough.

Norman Taylor attended the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benedict on Cole Hill Tuesday evening. A large group of friends and relatives enjoyed the festivities and left with many good wishes for the future happiness and prosperity of the Benedicts.

Several Garlandites attended or helped out with financial aid the supper given at Pittsfield recently for the benefit of service men. A substantial sum was realized and gratitude is extended by the club for all the help received.

Dorothy Jane Rapp has secured the position of music director and teacher of English in the Tidoute

Warren Nurse Now Serving In U. S. Army

A special communication received today from McCloskey General Hospital at Temple, Texas, reports that Lt. Bertha E. Engel, Army Nurse Corps, has recently been transferred there from Camp Claiborne, La.

Lt. Engel, commissioned a second lieutenant on February 3, 1944, is the daughter of Mrs. Cecelia Engel, of Tidoute, and is a graduate of Tidoute.

She received her nurse's training at Warren General Hospital. After her graduation here she worked in the operating room of a Kane Hospital and was an industrial nurse for I. Miller and Company, Long Island. She was also night superintendent at St. Amis Hospital in New York and superintendent at Memorial Hospital in Jamaica, N. Y.

High School. She motors back and forth.

Mrs. Richard Tripp is visiting her husband's parents here.

The mild weather of January went out with high water that came near to flooding the village. The ice gorge was one of the largest in years.

LANDER

Lander, Feb. 17—The Trinity Ladies' Aid met on Wednesday with Mrs. Jennie Lyon. Due to sickness there were only four members, two visitors and two children present. A tureen dinner was served at noon followed by the regular business meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cowles and family were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cowles at Jamestown on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bottko of Pittsfield were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bosco. Mrs. Mary Bottko returned home with them after spending a few months at the Bosco home.

Miss Elsie Lyon spent the weekend with her sister Mrs. Scott Phillips at Russell.

Mrs. Olive Rickerson has returned to her home from the Warren General Hospital where she has been a patient for the past six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cowles visited Mrs. Ella Porter and daughter Margaret at Chancellers Valley on Sunday.

Miss Hazel Hansen spent the weekend visiting her parents at Erie.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Dudgeon spent Sunday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Gust Youngberg at Falconer Sunday. Carl and David Youngberg who have been staying with their grandparents during their mother's illness returned to their home.

Lander, Feb. 14—Charles Gruber, T-3 son of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Gruber, of Lander, has returned to Fort Bliss, Tex., after spending a furlough with his parents. They have also had word from their son, Staff Sergeant Donald Gruber, who is with the 62nd Engineer Company, that he has been transferred from Sicily to England.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jones, Jr., visited at the home of the former's sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Gruber, Wednesday evening. Mr. Jones has just completed his boot training at Sampson, N. Y., and is spending an eighteen-day furlough with his wife and other relatives.

Herbert Stanton has been spending a week with his son, Walter, and family, at Frewsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Edson Skinner entertained at a farewell party Friday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Minor Satterlund, who are leaving for DuBois for an indefinite time. The evening was spent in visiting. Mrs. Skinner served lunch. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Burgett, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Webster and the honor guests.

The Lander Sunshine Club was entertained Friday afternoon at the home of Fern Hindsdale with thirteen members, two visitors and several children present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Lois Lindell, and all repeated the Lord's Prayer. Minutes were read followed by roll call and payment of dues. Several bills were ordered paid. Locals Slow in Foul Department; Hilltop Sinks 14 of 19 Tries outscore them 12 to 10 and led every inch of the way. Paced by three tip-in shots from "Long Jim" Eaton, the locals had the Taftmen baffled for a while and it was late in the quarter that the enemy struck back and dropped their 10 points, led by Nevell, 6-7 center who made two shots from underneath and was aided by Hall, Nicosia and Brownell with two points apiece. McLean and Beyer added 2 foul pointers to give Warren a 24 to 22 advantage at the half marker.

Warren's nemesis, that third quarter slump, built up the Red and Green's fatal lead in the third period when they went ahead 38 to 34, as every member of the Hilltop, except the center position, entered the scoring and clipped 16 points to the Dragon's 10. Scalise, Eaton and Finley, of Warren, the first two with two field goals apiece, kept them in there but Jamestown's defense proved nearly impenetrable and they were forced into the lower end of the score.

Again paced by Jimmy Eaton, Warren shaved the Jamestown lead to a mere one point at one time in the closing stanza and outscored them all the way through, but the fighting Red and Green wasn't letting their vengeance over a drubbing at Warren earlier in the season take a back seat, and held on to every margin with all they could muster. Fouls on both sides grew to great proportions as Warren's Dick Finley and Fred Beyer took to the showers. The former with 4:40 of the last period remaining. The locals only could garner one point out of a possible 7 from the foul line in the second half while Jamestown nailed 6 out of 11 to give them plenty of margin for victory. The Dragons fell out of the race by six points at the time Finley was removed but came back to win 3 with a minute to go when Joe Scalise striped the nets from the foul line to come within one counter and with seconds remaining gave Warren a fighting chance to win, but Carlson, fleet forward for the enemy, slipped through and tossed a two-count from the side court with ten seconds to go and FOUL WEATHER!

The locals lost their fourth of the year, 46 to 43. Eaton with 14 points led Warren and was followed by McLean and Finley and Beyer each with 6 while Jamestown depended on Brownell, Carlson and Hall at 12, 12 and 11 respectively for their victory over their ancient rivals. Hall, performed beautifully from the guard position and stopped nearly every shot attempted by Warren's McLean.

The locals scored 18 field goals to the winner's 14, but suffered their defeat from 14 foul pointers out of 19 tries on the part of Jamestown to 7 out of 15 for themselves.

FIRST IN THE HEART OF WASHINGTON

HERE were a lot of "firsts" attributed to Washington, but in the heart of this great patriot there was only one first: his country . . . our country. While we are fighting for what he founded, let's put personal ambitions behind us and make this country our first thought, too.

We shall observe Washington's Birthday tomorrow as a legal holiday
